The DMV, originally titled STEREOTYPO: Rants and Rumbblings at the DMV, premiered in 2015 at The Marsh San Francisco and received critical acclaim. KQED hailed the show as “Hilarious. Amazing. The most fun you’ll ever have at the DMV,” noting “The characters are all recognizable ‘types,’ but the point of the play is that each eventually defies our conceptions of who we think they are and what we think they can do.” Stark Insider declared Reed “is soooo good that if you caught Can You Dig It? or his other shows, you’ll be back for more.” East Bay Express wrote Reed “excels at physical comedy, and his numerous dance interludes vacillate between being self-effacing and impressively charismatic,” and “The performer can pirouette almost as well as he can deliver a punch line, allowing him to sashay through several characters with charm and wit.” The DMV enjoyed multiple extensions at The Marsh San Francisco and Berkeley and most recently played at Brian Copeland’s The Best of San Francisco Solo Series.

ABOUT THE MARSH

The Marsh is known as "a breeding ground for new performance." Launched in 1989 by Founder and Artistic Director Stephanie Weisman, it annually hosts more than 500 performances across the company's two venues in San Francisco and Berkeley. A leading outlet for solo performers, The Marsh's specialty has been hailed by the San Francisco Chronicle as "solo performances that celebrate the power of storytelling at its simplest and purest." The East Bay Times named The Marsh one of the Bay Area's best intimate theaters, calling it "one of the most thriving solo theaters in the nation. The live theatrical energy is simply irresistible." In April 2020, The Marsh launched its digital platform MarshStream and hosted more than 700 live streams which provided 300 performers and its youth class participants a platform to continue discovering, developing, and producing art during the COVID-19 pandemic shutdown. Today, The Marsh presents both in-person live performances and content on its MarshStream, continuing to expand its reach to audiences onsite and around the world. The Marsh believes in the power of people's storytelling and has several classes for the public to create their own works as well as through its developing work performance series: Monday Night Marsh, Tell It on Tuesday, and Marsh Risings. The theater company also collaborates with over 25 San Francisco public schools providing a year-round youth program serving students at its theater and in the classrooms.
